

MILLER FINDS HIS KIDNAPPED SON.

MRS. SAMUEL D. MILLER.

Boy and Mother Traced to Lawrence, Ind., on Way Here.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 27.—Mrs. Samuel Duncan Miller, of the Rutland apartment-house, in West Fifty-seventh street, New York, where she is prominent socially and in charitable work, failed in a sensational attempt to kidnap her seven-year-old son and take him back to New York.

After an all-night search she and the boy were found at Lawrence, Ind., by her husband and his father, W. H. H. Miller, who was Attorney-General of the United States under President Harrison. The boy was taken home by his father and Mrs. Miller was unharmed. Had the pursuers been ten minutes late she would have eluded them and be now speeding on her way to New York.

Last Friday Mrs. Miller appeared in Indianapolis and demanded her son, who had been brought here by his father and was an inmate of his grandfather's household. There was a consultation between husband and wife, and it was agreed that if she remained here she could see the child daily.

Yesterday the little fellow was taken by his nurse to her apartments in the Denison House. Mrs. Miller sent the nurse out to call on her. Meanwhile she ordered a carriage and was on the point of driving away when the nurse returned. She was invited to take a drive. The carriage was driven off in the direction of the railroad depot and the nurse sprang out and telephoned to Mr. Miller.

Both the Messrs. Miller hurried to the depot, but learned there that Mrs. Miller had driven off toward Brightwood, where she could take a train for Anderson and connect with the Knickerbocker special. No trace of her was found at Brightwood, and late last night Mr. Miller returned. The kidnapper had disappeared.

At 2:30 o'clock the kidnapper turned up. He said Mrs. Miller and her son Sydney were at Brightwood, and gave her address.

Search is being made to-day by the police of the West One Hundredth street station for a well-dressed man who murdered a handsome young woman companion while they were dining in the Unter den Linden Restaurant at Ninety-seventh street and Broadway.

Detectives Hohmeyer, Walsh and Moore have been at work trying to establish the couple's identity, but they admit there is small chance of clearing up the mystery.

The shooting occurred at 1 o'clock yesterday when the restaurant was crowded. The man was under the influence of drink. He began to talk angrily and finally drew a revolver. The woman screamed and rushed into the cafe followed by the man. She ran behind the bar crying hysterically for the men to save her. Before Mr. Stillbauer and his waiters could disarm the man he fired three shots at the woman. None of the bullets hit her.

After the pistol had been taken away from him he rushed out of the place and boarded a south bound Boulevard car. The woman left a few minutes later. She was about twenty-eight years old, medium height and fine figure. She had brown hair and was attractive looking. She was attired in dark, dark clothing.

The man was about forty years old, stout, about 5 feet 5 inches, and wore a brown moustache.

DIED FROM GAS FUMES.

William Ingraham, thirty-five years old, who worked at odd jobs in the laundry stable of David Harnett, at 15 East Thirtieth street, was found dead this morning in one of the harness rooms, where he was allowed to sleep.

There was a gas stove in the room, which was turned off when the man went to sleep. Through the night he kicked the gas cock, thus allowing the gas to escape.

Edward O'Sullivan, another employee, found Ingraham and called an ambulance from the West Third Hospital, but the man had been dead for some time.

DR. O'HANLON IN RUNAWAY.

Police Can't Find Man Who Did the Shooting.

Jumps from Carriage Which Collides with Street Car.

Dr. Philip O'Hanlon, coroner's physician of 121 West Ninety-fifth street, had a narrow escape from injury early today when he jumped from a runaway carriage which had collided with an Amsterdam avenue and Forty-second street car at Tenth avenue and Forty-second street.

Dr. O'Hanlon early in the evening went to the home of the late James J. Traynor, 40 East Fifty-first street. He was accompanied by a friend. About his wife he drove to the West Twenty-third street ferry with a friend, telling his wife he would call for her on his way home.

He left his friend and was returning when the horses, driven by Robert Campbell, of 12 West Sixty-second street, became frightened and started to run. Campbell hung to the reins, but could not stop them.

At Forty-second street they dashed westward. After brushing past several wagons they ran into an Amsterdam street car and started to run.

The horses continued their flight, colliding with a horse car and at the entrance of the ferry dashed into the Roosevelt Hospital automobile ambulance. The horses were finally stopped by Daniel Sullivan, the gateman. Campbell was unhurt.

Dr. O'Hanlon called a cab and went for his wife and was driven home.

Capt. Goddard's Detectives Closed Up Gambling Places.

Detectives of Capt. Goddard's society raided three police shops with the assistance of the police to-day.

HELP IS POURING IN FOR THE FINKLESTEINS.

Money Sent in Many Letters and a Kind Doctor Offers Services.

I desire to most gratefully acknowledge the letters and inclosures as printed and enumerated below. Never in a long history of response to suffering and need have our dear Evening World readers come to the rescue of greater numbers.

A father dying of consumption and unable to work for the past six months, five little children naked and hungry, a distracted mother about to give birth to another little heir to sorrow and privation.

In this condition I found the Finklesteins last Sunday. The Evening World immediately relieved the hunger of the family and gave Mrs. Finklestein $10 for pressing needs.

Christmas Eve we sent a fine basket of food to the little family of 271 Delancy street. Only yesterday the story of their distress was told to our readers and by the first post I find this blessed help in money and an offer of a good doctor's services when the poor mother's hour of travail comes. God bless the kind hearts that are touched by the sufferings of the humble poor and moved to lighten the burden of the sore oppressed.

HARRIET HUBBARD AYER.

SOME LETTERS OF AID.

Fifty Cents for the Children.

Dear Mrs. Ayer: Enclosed please find 50 cents for the poor little Finklesteins children. I am a little girl of three years and am very sorry for the poor family who are hungry and without clothes. I hope every one who reads this notice of their distress in the Evening World will give a little toward helping these poor little children. I wish them good health and better fortune than they have had. With kindest regards, MABEL WEILAND, West 252d street.

A Doctor's Kind Offer.

Dear Mrs. Ayer: I will be glad to attend professionally Mrs. Finklestein, of No. 271 Delancy street, and render such other services as are within the power of a practicing physician. Very truly, DR. AMELIA M. FENDELER, 40 East 54th street.

"A Happy New Year."

To the Editor: Associated please find $1.00 for Mrs. Finklestein, and hope it will bring them a happy New Year. T. F.

Sends in His Mite.

Mrs. H. H. Ayer: Dear Madam—Kindly find enclosed one dollar, my mite toward the relief of the Finklesteins, and hope it will bring them a happy New Year. Yours respectfully, M. D. L.

Touched by Sad Appeal.

Dear Mrs. Ayer: I have just read your appeal for the Finklesteins family. Please accept this dollar for them. Sincerely, MRS. WALTON.

93 For Finklesteins.

To the Editor: Enclosed please find two dollars for the Finklesteins family. Please acknowledge receipt through your evening paper. Yours truly, J. M.

A number of employees in this city are considering the adoption of an insurance scheme against strikes, similar to that in vogue in Austria. There when it is shown that the strike is not due to the fault of the employer, he is indemnified for all loss arising from it. Since bricklayers unions in Greater New York will be represented at the Milwaukee convention of the Journeymen Bricklayers and Masons' International Union, beginning Jan. 14, the New York delegates to the bricklayers' international convention are as follows: J. C. Morgan, Peter Flaherty, John M. Namey, Thomas Quinn, D. Ziegler, Denis Doris, P. Hauer, William O'Neill, William Bowen, William Klein, Philip Hauer, William Corey, George Stied, James J. Ryan, James Finn, J. Kelly and J. V. Bailey.

LABOR NEWS.

The committees in charge of the workmen's twentieth century dinner will meet this afternoon in room 59, 1101 Broadway, to discuss the details. The Rev. W. D. P. Bliss is chairman of the committee.

Bishop Porter is expected to be the principal speaker at the workmen's twentieth century dinner on Monday night. Other speakers will be Ernest H. Crosby, Bolton Hall, A. J. Boulton and J. V. Bailey.

The Manhattan Knife-Cutters Association has secured a charter from the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

Local Union No. 12, of the International Metal Polishers, Platers, Buffers and Brass Workers' Union, will have a special meeting to elect officers next Friday evening at its new headquarters on the corner of Jay and Wiloughby streets, Brooklyn.

DON PUNCHED A "COP."

Policeman Wouldn't Run An Errand for Pugnacious Spaniard.

Senor Juan Gaytia y Gordia, a Spaniard who reached New York four days ago and is stopping at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, was today a prisoner in the Yorkville Court charged with having assaulted a policeman.

The complainant was Policeman William O'Connell, of the West Thirty-seventh street station. He met the prisoner at the corner of Thirty-seventh street and First avenue. Gordia asked for a cab, and O'Connell said he would direct him to a cab stand.

Gordia ordered the blueshirt to get the cab and struck him with his fist. He was promptly arrested and landed a few more blows and jabs. He was later arraigned and held for trial in Special Session in hall of 125, which amount he deposited with the City Chamberlain.
